

Revising MIMC: Finding Solutions to the Challenges of Today's Migration

List of speakers, participants and short bios

Chairs, Commentators and Panellists

Name	Email	Short Bio
Professor T Alexander Aleinikoff (online)	aleinikt@newschool.edu	Alex Aleinikoff is University Professor and Director of the Zolberg Institute on Migration and Mobility at The New School. He is the author of The Arc of Protection: Reforming the International Refugee Regime (Stanford U. Press 2019) (with Leah Zamore) and served as United Nations Deputy High Commissioner for Refugees from 2010 to 2015.
Dr. Grażyna Baranowska	baranowska@hertie-school.org	Dr Grażyna Baranowska is a Marie Skłodowska-Curie Postdoctoral Fellow at the Hertie School, as well as an Assistant Professor at the Polish Academy of Sciences. Her project MIRO seeks to identify and interpret international legal obligations regarding ‘missing migrants’ and accordingly critique and shape the practices of the EU, its Member States, and IOs. Since August 2022, she is also a member of the UN Working Group on Involuntary and Enforced Disappearances.
Professor Rainer Baubock (online)	rainer.baubock@eui.eu	Rainer Bauböck is part time professor in the Global Governance Programme of the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies at the European University Institute. His research interests are in normative political theory and comparative research on democratic citizenship, European integration, migration, nationalism and minority rights.
Professor Megan Bradley (online)	megan.bradley@mcgill.ca	Megan Bradley is Associate Professor of Political Science and International Development Studies at McGill University. She is the author of Refugee Repatriation: Justice, Responsibility and Redress (2013) and The International Organization for Migration: Commitments, Challenges, Complexities (2020), and co-editor of Refugees’ Roles in Resolving Displacement and Building Peace: Beyond Beneficiaries (2019). She serves as co-editor of the Journal of Refugee Studies .
Professor Cathryn Costello	cathryn.costello@qeh.ox.ac.uk / costello@hertie-school.org	Cathryn Costello is Professor of Fundamental Rights at the Hertie School, Berlin and Professor of Refugee and Migration Law at the Refugee Studies Centre, University of Oxford. She is the author of The Human Rights of Migrants and Refugees in European Law (Oxford University Press, 2015), co-editor of the Oxford Handbook of International Refugee Law (Oxford University Press, 2021), and Principal Investigator of RefMig, a five-year ERC-funded research project
Professor Michael Doyle	md2221@columbia.edu	Michael W. Doyle is a University Professor of Columbia University, convener of the commission that produced the Model International Mobility Convention, visiting researcher at the WZB, and senior fellow and director of the MIMC Project at the Carnegie Council. From 2006 to 2013, Doyle was an individual member and then chair of the UN Democracy Fund, a fund established in 2005 by the UN General Assembly. Doyle previously served as assistant secretary-general and special adviser for policy planning to United Nations Secretary-General Kofi Annan.

Professor Anuscheh Farahat	anuscheh.farahat@fau.de	Anuscheh Farahat is a Professor of Public Law, Migration Law and Human Rights Law at the University of Erlangen-Nürnberg and a Fellow at the Max-Planck-Institute for social anthropology in Halle. Her research focuses on migration law, constitutional and human rights law with a strong focus on labour migration and matters of integration.
Professor Feline Freier (could not attend)	lf.freierd@up.edu.pe	Feline Freier is an Associate Professor of Political Science at the Universidad del Pacífico (Lima, Peru). IDRC Research Chair on Forced Displacement in Latin America and the Caribbean. Her research focuses on migration and refugee policies and laws in Latin America, south-south migration and the Venezuelan displacement crisis.
Professor Marc Helbling	helbling@wzb.eu	Marc Helbling is a professor at the Mannheim Centre for European Social Research (MZES) at the University of Mannheim and a Research Fellow at the WZB Berlin Social Science Center. He is a member of the German Expert Council on Integration and Migration and associate editor of the International Migration Review and the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies.
Kate Hooper (online)	khooper@migrationpolicy.org	Kate Hooper is a Policy Analyst with Migration Policy Institute's International Program, where she leads MPI's global work on labor migration. Ms. Hooper has advised governments and intergovernmental organizations on legal migration pathways and opportunities to adapt immigration and immigrant integration policies to respond to emerging labor market trends.
Professor Liav Orgad	liav.orgad@eui.eu	Liav Orgad is the Director of the Research Group "Global Citizenship Governance" at the EUI Florence, Head of the Group "International Citizenship Law" at the WZB Berlin, Distinguished Scholar-in-Residence at Peking University School of Transnational Law, and the Director of the Rubinstein "Center for Constitutional Challenges" at Reichman University (Israel).
Dr Angela Sherwood (online)	a.sherwood@qmul.ac.uk	Angela Sherwood is a Lecturer in Law at Queen Mary University of London (QMUL) and one of the Co-Directors for the QMUL Centre for Climate Crime and Climate Justice. Angela's work has appeared in the Journal of Refugee Studies and in several edited volumes on themes of international migration, displacement, and state crime.
Dr Tamara Wood (online)	tamara.wood@unsw.edu.au	Tamara Wood is a Senior Lecturer at the Faculty of Law, University of Tasmania, and an affiliated postdoctoral researcher at the Hertie School. She is a member of the Advisory Committee for the Platform on Disaster Displacement, and was recently the Deputy Lead for a technical consulting team supporting the Pacific Islands Forum (PIFs) to draft a ‘world first’ Regional Framework on Climate Mobility.

--	--	--

Participants:

Name	Email	Short Bio
Fekade Alemayhu Abebe	f.abebe@hertie-school.org	Fekade Alemayhu Abebe is a PhD candidate in international law at the Geneva Graduate Institute. He is currently a visiting PhD fellow at the Center for Fundamental Rights at the Hertie School. His research focuses on the interaction of different international law regimes concerning the protection of missing migrants.
Mitali Agrawal	Agrawal@hertie-school.org	Mitali Agrawal is a Research Associate with the RefMig project. She studies global refugee recognition processes, with a special focus on UNHCR Mandate Refugee Status Determination. She has a Master of Public Policy from the Hertie School, where she specialized in quantitative research methods. Previously, she has worked on designing large-scale data collection projects on children’s education in India.
Professor Diego Acosta Arcarazo	d.acosta@bristol.ac.uk	Dr Diego Acosta is Professor of European and Migration Law at the University of Bristol. He is a leading expert on migration and nationality law and has published numerous outputs primarily on Europe and Latin America. His new research project investigates free movement of people regimes at global level. He has advised numerous IOs, governments, parliaments, law firms, and NGOs in Europe, the USA, Latin America, the Caribbean, and Africa, including the European Union, IOM, the Organization of American States, the Interamerican Bank on Development, UNASUR, or IGAD in East Africa.
Dr Oliviero Angeli (online)	oliviero.angeli@tu-dresden.de	Oliviero Angeli teaches political theory and the history of political thought at the University of Dresden, where he serves as coordinator of the Migration Forum on Migration and Democracy (MIDEM). Before joining the TU Dresden, he lectured or did research at various other universities, including the Scuola Normale Superiore (Pisa), Oxford University and European University Institute (Florence).
Dorothea Biaback Anong	dorothea.biaback.anong@hu-berlin.de	Dorothea Biaback Anong holds a B.A. in Social Anthropology and a M.A. in Interdisciplinary Migration Studies. She has researched and published on seasonal labour migration and worked on a EU-funded project on migrant youth’s integration. She is currently conducting her PhD-research on selectivity in regional migration regimes at HU Berlin.
Emma Borgnäs (online)	emma.borgnas@gmail.com
Elizabeth Davis	edavis123.ed@outlook.com	Elizabeth Davis is a masters student at Humboldt’s Matters of Activity program, under the Cluster of Excellence. Her research concerns the optimizing of refugee camp infrastructure and livelihood design in flood prone locations.

		Previously, Elizabeth has worked with the United Nations World Food Programme since 2018 in Berlin, Cairo and Sudan.
Hannes Einsporn	hannes.einsporn@bosch-stiftung.de	Hannes Einsporn is a Senior Project Manager in the Robert Bosch Foundation's Migration Team, where he is leading strategy and engagement on two programme areas: "the Future of Protection" and "Human Mobility in the Context of Climate Change". Previously, he worked for UNHCR in Iran and with CARE on Iraq. He holds a M.Sc. in Refugee & Forced Migration Studies from the University of Oxford and a B.A. in Political Science from the Freie Universität Berlin.
Professor Viola B. Georgi	georgiv@uni-hildesheim.de	Prof. Dr. Viola B. Georgi holds the chair for Diversity Education at the University of Hildesheim in Germany. She is the founding director of the Center for Diversity, Democracy and Inclusion in Education. Her research focus is on integration, diversity and citizenship education, memory studies, educational media as well as democratic school development and teacher education. She serves as an advisor in various civil society initiatives and government boards (i.e. German Expert Council on Integration and Migration). In 2020 she founded the network Migration Lab Germany (www.migration-lab.net).
Dr. Sué González Hauck	gonzalez@dezim-institut.de	Dr. Sué González Hauck studied law in Heidelberg and Strasbourg and obtained her Ph.D. in law from the University of St. Gallen, Switzerland, in 2019 with a thesis titled 'Systemic Interpretation in International Law'. She is a postdoctoral researcher at the German Center for Integration and Migration Research (DeZIM-Institut) in Berlin, where she monitors the relationship between law and racism in Germany. She is Co-editor-in-Chief at Völkerrechtsblog and is currently co-editing the first-ever open-access and collectively written textbook on public international law.
Franziska Hermann	franziska.herrmann.ii@uni-potsdam.de	Franziska Hermann is a PhD-candidate at the Berlin Potsdam Research Group "The International Rule of Law - Rise or Decline?". She is assistant editor of the 2nd edition of the OUP commentary on the 1951 Refugee Convention (by Zimmermann/Einarsen). She has been co-organizing the AjV/DGIR-conference on the topic of "Jurisdiction – Who speaks international law?" (2021).
Professor Miles Kahler (online)	kahler@american.edu	Miles Kahler is distinguished professor at American University's School of International Service and senior fellow for global governance at the Council on Foreign Relations in Washington, DC. Previously, he was Rohr professor of Pacific international relations and distinguished professor of political science at the University of California (UC), San Diego's School of Global Policy and Strategy and in the political science department.
Camille Kasavan	camille.kasavan@fu-berlin.de	Camille Kasavan is a PhD candidate in political science at the WZB/Freie Universität. Her research focuses on political negotiations surrounding refugee resettlement and the role of humanitarian organisations in global governance (with a focus on UNHCR). She previously worked at Samuel Hall, where she conducted extensive fieldwork with migrants and forcibly displaced populations in Ethiopia, Afghanistan, and Tunisia. She holds a B.A. from Macalester College in the United States and an M.A. from Sciences Po - Paris (PSIA)

Dr Anne Koch	anne.koch@swp-berlin.org	Anne Koch is a researcher at the German foreign policy think tank SWP (Stiftung Wissenschaft und Politik), where she works in the field of migration and refugee policy. In the past she has been affiliated with the Hertie School of Governance, University College London, the University of Oxford's Refugee Studies Centre, and UNHCR's Peace Building, Livelihoods and Partnerships Section.
Dorothea Henrike Koehn	dhk2151@columbia.edu	Dorothea Koehn is a research assistant to Prof. Michael Doyle and research fellow at the Carnegie Council for Ethics in International Affairs, supporting the Model International Mobility Convention. She is a Master's Candidate at Columbia's School of International Public Affairs, specializing in Humanitarian Policy and the Middle East. Prior to joining Columbia, she completed her Bachelor's degree in International Relations at the London School of Economics. Dorothea previously worked for CARE International, Human Rights Watch and the German Parliament.
Dr Michal Kramer	Kramer@hertie-school.org	Dr Michal Kramer is Centre Manager at the Centre for Fundamental Rights. Previously, she was a postdoctoral fellow at the interdisciplinary research group "Human Rights Under Pressure", a joint programme of Freie Universität Berlin and The Hebrew University of Jerusalem. She held a teaching position at the Law Department of Freie Universität Berlin and a research position at The Israel Democracy Institute. Michal holds a Dr. iur. degree from Freie Universität Berlin.
Dr Laura Lambert	laura.lambert@abi.uni-freiburg.de	Laura Lambert is interim head of the research cluster "Patterns of (Forced) Migration" at Arnold Bergstraesser Institute in Freiburg. Her research focuses on the externalization of refugee protection to West Africa, bureaucracies, migration regimes and infrastructures. She conducted a PhD in Social Anthropology on the "everyday externalisation" of refugee protection to Niger.
Dr Luc Leboeuf	leboeuf@eth.mpg.de	Luc Leboeuf is a Head of Research Group in the Department of Law and Anthropology of the Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology, where he leads the VULNER research project funded by the EU under the Horizon 2020 work programme (www.vulner.eu). He is also a visiting Professor in the law faculty of the Catholic University of Louvain (UCL), where he teaches classes in migration law and EU law. In 2021, he was appointed by the Belgian Government to co-preside the expert commission in charge of establishing a Belgian Migration Code.
Julian Lehmann	jlehmann@gppi.net	Julian Lehmann is a project manager at the Global Public Policy Institute (GPPi), an independent think tank in Berlin. He conducts applied research projects as well as strategic and policy evaluations in the fields of (forced) migration and humanitarian action. Currently, he concludes a multi-annual study commissioned by the UNHCR.

Dr. Lauren Nishimura (online)	lauren.nishi@gmail.com	Lauren Nishimura is a McKenzie Postdoctoral Fellow at Melbourne Law School, University of Melbourne. She received her doctorate and masters in law from the University of Oxford, where her research focused on climate change, international law, human rights, and migration. Dr Nishimura is on the Advisory Committee for the Platform on Disaster Displacement and also holds a JD from Georgetown University.
Professor Nora Markard	nmarkard@uni-muenster.de	Nora Markard is Professor for Public Law and Human Rights at the University of Münster. She specializes in international refugee law and human rights law. She studied in Berlin, Paris and London and was a visiting fellow at the University of Michigan and at Columbia Law School.
Dr Mehari Taddele Maru (online) (did not attend workshop)	mehari.maru@eui.eu	Dr Mehari Taddele Maru is currently Academic Coordinator of the Young African Leaders Programme at the School of Transnational Governance, and Part-time Professor Migration Policy Centre at the European University Institute in Florence, Italy. He is also a senior expert at Mercator Dialogue on Asylum and Migration. Prof Mehari is also a Fellow at the United Nations University Institute on Comparative Regional Integration Studies (UNU-CRIS), Bruges, Belgium.
Dr Karoline Popp	popp@svr-migration.de	Karoline Popp has worked on migration issues since 2007. She is currently a researcher at the Expert Council on Integration and Migration in Berlin where she focusses on EU migration and asylum policy, global migration governance and refugee protection, and migration and climate change. She previously held positions with the IOM, as a policy officer at headquarters in Geneva and at the regional office in Cairo. She graduated from Oxford University and the School of Oriental and African Studies. Karoline volunteers for various migration-related causes and serves on the board of the Berlin-based non-profit organization "Migration Matters".
Jonas Püschmann	pueschmann.project@mpil.de	Jonas Püschmann is a doctoral candidate (Freie Universität Berlin) and former research fellow in the working group "Towards a Proceduralization of International Law?" at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law. His research focuses on the changing role and nature of state borders, particularly in the context of migration.
Dr Lena Riemer	lena_riemer@yahoo.de	Lena Riemer holds an LLM from Yale Law School and a PhD from Freie University Berlin in the field of international migration law. Currently, she works as a Yale Robina Fellow for UNHCR Germany on questions of identification papers for refugees.
Victoria Rietig (online) (did not attend)		Victoria Rietig is Head of the Migration Program at the German Society for Foreign Policy (DGAP). Rietig began her career at the United Nations in New York, where she worked at the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR) on migration and development.

Dr Stefan Salomon	s.salomon@uva.nl	Stefan Salomon is Assistant Professor of European law at the University of Amsterdam. His research focuses on migration and refugee law. He researches how legal governance of migration changes citizenship and produces racial inequalities. His research also covers questions of space and territory in EU law and international law. Stefan worked and conducted research in different regions in Sub-Saharan Africa. He also serves as an ethics expert for the European Commission.
Professor Ayelet Shachar (online)	ayelet.shachar@utoronto.ca	Ayelet Shachar is Professor of Law, Political Science, and Global Affairs at the University of Toronto, and the holder of the R.F. Harney Chair in Ethnic, Immigration and Pluralism Studies at the University of Toronto, where she directs the Harney Program at the Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy.
Dr Anam Soomro	soomro.anam@gmail.com	Anam is a research fellow at the KFG -The International Rule of Law- Rise or Decline? She obtained her doctorate at the Freie Universität Berlin and her research interests include TWAIL (third world approaches to international law); history and theory of international law; and the global governance of human mobility.
Professor Yasemin Soysal	yasemin.soysal@wzb.eu	Yasemin Soysal is research professor of the Global Sociology research program at the WZB and leading research member of the SCRIPTS Cluster of Excellence. Her research brings global and sociological–institutional perspectives into the investigation of the historical development and current reconfigurations of nation-state and citizenship. She is currently engaged in the theoretical and empirical investigation of the rise of the transnationally standardized script of agentic, meritocratic citizenship and its comparative scope, implementation, and contradictions.
Pia Lotta Storf	pia.storf@uni-muenster.de	Pia Lotta Storf is a PhD researcher at WWU Münster with Prof. Nora Markard, focussing on administrative justice, anti-discrimination law and collective rights in the context of migration. She studied law and gender studies at Passau University and at LaTrobe, Melbourne. Her PhD project examines collective refugee status determination.
Dr Natalie Welfens	Welfens@hertie-school.org	Natalie Welfens is a postdoctoral researcher working on the project ‘Refugees are Migrants: Refugee Mobility, Recognition and Rights’. Natalie’s research focusses on questions around categorisation practices and resulting inequalities, inclusion and exclusion in refugee recognition processes, particularly in Europe and the Middle East. She completed her PhD in Political Science at the University of Amsterdam in 2021.
Vera Wriedt	v.wriedt@phd.hertie-school.org	Vera Wriedt is a PhD researcher at the Hertie School’s Centre for Fundamental Rights with a focus on borders and expulsions. Before starting her PhD, Vera worked in the Migration Programme of the European Centre for Constitutional and Human Rights (ECCHR). She has taught seminars on human rights and migration at Freie Universität Berlin and the University of Münster.

Marie Walter-Franke (Did not attend)		Marie Walter-Franke has been a research fellow in the DGAP migration program since June 2022 with a focus on migration management. She researches the external dimension of German and European migration policy. Before moving to the DGAP, Marie was an Affiliate Policy Fellow at the Jacques Delors Center and researched EU migration and asylum policy.
Dr Zeynep Yanasmayan	yanasmayan@dezim-institut.de	Zeynep Yanasmayan is the head of Migration Department at the German Centre for Integration and Migration Research (DeZIM). She is an interdisciplinary scholar working at the intersection of political science, sociology, and socio-legal studies with research interests on citizenship, migration and mobility studies, governance of religious diversity, transnationalism and diaspora politics.
Catharina Ziebritzki (online)	ziebritzki@mpil.de	Catharina Ziebritzki works on migration law, international law and EU law. She is currently a PhD candidate at Frankfurt University. From 2016 to July 2022 she has been a research fellow at Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law in Heidelberg.